

64 Grid Aspirants Work Under Oliver's Tutelage

Gridders Hold Light Drill

Football took on a serious air yesterday when Coach Tex Oliver had the boys don uniforms and frolic on the sod of the upper practice field. The turnout was swelled to 64 with the arrival of several more grid aspirants.

The workout was light, consisting mainly of loosening up muscles that had become tightened up over the winter vacation and working on a few plays.

Good Nucleus

While his turnout includes many green players, Tex said that his team would not be "entirely weak" and went on to explain that he had a "better nucleus of veterans."

Reason for much of Oliver's optimism after viewing one of the greenest turnouts he has seen at Oregon was the fine backbone of veterans. He has Halfbacks Tommy Roblin, Tackles Ed Moshofsky and Merritt Kufferman, and Guards Val Culwell and Cliff Giffin to build around.

Up from the sophomore ranks of last year he will have good material in Jimmy Newquist, Tommy Oxman, Chuck Elliot, and Russ Nowling.

Frosh Prospects Good

Good prospects from the frosh team includes backfield men LeRoy Erickson and Bob Reynolds. Bob Donnelly, Vic Atiyeh, or Ray Blatchley.

Of the 64 turning out, 14 are donning college suits for the first time, and 24 are freshmen. The remaining 26 are varsity men from last year.
