THE SIGNIFICANCE OF ACADEMIC REGALIA

*W*earing academic regalia is a custom with origins in the medieval European universities, where it was required as daily wear to serve as a reminder of a person's role in the academic community.

Most American colleges and universities have since adopted the cap, gown and hood to wear exclusively at particular ceremonies, such as commencement. Since 1865, colleges and universities in the United States have followed a uniform code which specifies the correct type of regalia for each degree.

Masters and Doctors wear a hood lined with colors of the degree-granting institution, or lined with a color of an institution represented by the wearer. The hoods are trimmed in velvet with a color distinctive of the degree. Hoods of gowns at Pacific today are lined in black, with scarlet chevrons. Here is a listing of degrees and their typical colors:

Arts, Letters and Humanities	White
Business Administration	Drab
Economics	Copper
Education	Light Blue
Fine Arts	Brown
Library Science	Lemon
Music	Pink
Occupational Therapy	Burgundy
Optometry	Seafoam Green
Philosophy	Dark Blue
Physical Therapy	Hunter Green
Physician Assistant	Hunter Green
Psychology	Gold
Science	Golden Yellow
Social Science	Citron
Theology	Scarlet

ALMA MATER

Hail, Old Pacific, hail, noble and strong
To thee with loyal hearts we raise our song
Swelling to heaven high, loud our praises ring
Hail, Old Pacific, hail, for thee we sing.

Hail, Old Pacific, Hail!

Alexei Fëdorovich Lvov
(1799-1870)

Hail, old Pa - ci - fic, hail, No - ble and strong. To thee with loy - al hearts we raise our song. Swel - ling to heav - en high, Loud our prais - es ring. Hail, Hail, old Pa - ci - fic, hail, for thee we sing.
